Hi! Do you happen to have a contact name and number for the lady at the farmers market that sells pesto? We loved it so much when we visited about a month ago. We live in Gallatin so my friend and I wanted to see if she would share the recipe.
Thanks so much! Joie

Hey Jeff, I'm lining up a Southeast trip and hoping to see you and your farm as part of the trip. What would work great for me is to land at your place the afternoon of March 28th, spend the night and leave sometime in the morning to go see Hector Black. Let me know if that works for you. Love to see you and your place and where those awesome preps are made!

Our book club is reading "Organic Manifesto". We would very much appreciate it if you could attend. The date is Tuesday, April 5 at 1:00 pm at the Cheatham county library. Thanks for your consideration.

Good morning! My boyfriend and I were hoping to take a drive over to the farm (hopefully today) to check it out. But we can't find any visitation times etc....
Barefoot Farmer to Adeaba
Barefoot Farmer Hello, we would love for you to come visit! We don't have visiting hours because we just live here, so usually whenever is best for you is best for us! Please email barefootfarmer@gmail.com with 3 dates and times that work for you, and we will pick which works best for us. Looking forward to meeting you!

Sweet Potatoes: My sweet potatoes are still very starchy, I know I am supposed to wait on them a while before eating so that the starches can turn into sugars, but not sure how long that is(?) While I am waiting how should I be storing them? In sunlight? I have them all in a plastic bag in a cabinet right now...

I hope we can count on seeing you there and look forward to seeing you soon.

Jeff, we met last year at the Menonite auction. You mentioned putting lime on the garden. When is the best time to apply & how? Thanks for the advise!
